Tulip Mania, revisited?

Introduction and “housekeeping” information:

First, a definition: a crypto currency or a “crypto,” such as Bitcoin, is digital currency in which encryption techniques regulate the generation of units of currency and verify the transfer of funds independently of a central bank.

On 6/23/17 we uploaded a video on whether cryptos are really alt (alternative) currencies, much less an investment, especially at today’s “coin” prices/crypto market caps (please see above). We’d like to revisit that video, expand on it in full post form herewith, and address a housekeeping issue related to our DK Analytics site “reformulation.”

Let us get our housekeeping topic out of the way. Specifically, our Main Street efforts here at DK Analytics will now also seek Main Street-style commercialization (we’re charging $10 per “full or in-depth post”) of the types of in-depth posts that typify nearly all of our historical posts. The intro sections of such posts will remain visible together with a full post purchase option directly below -- what you are seeing. “Slimmer” posts, which we will offer, will remain free of charge and completely visible on our site. The same goes for our reports, and, most obviously, for our videos.
